

“Under US Copyright law, accessible files (also known as alternative format), provided to the student can be used solely for eligible student’s own educational purposes and cannot be copied, shared, or distributed for use by others. The receipt of any alternative course materials from Auburn University’s Office of Accessibility is a declaration by the student that:

- 1. The student qualifies as having a disability that is certified by Auburn University’s Office of Accessibility and that disability requires the use of these alternative course materials.*
- 2. The student is currently registered at Auburn University or Auburn University of Montgomery at the time of the student’s request for text in alternative formats.*
- 3. The student will not copy, reproduce, or share any of the specialized formatted texts, nor allow anyone else to do so.*
- 4. The student already possesses the course materials he/she is requesting in an alternative format and will provide proof of such possession if required to do so by the Office of Accessibility on behalf of the copyright holder.”*
